

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is to a device for exchanging minimum amount of the fluid only by using surface tension of the fluid instead of external force like a pump. According to the device, an additional pump and power supply is not needed, 5 thereby the device can be small sized and portable, and not only manufacturing cost decreases and yield increases but the device is hardly out of order.